ORCHESTRA NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT

ALL true music lovers in Burnside must surely be proud of the high praise voiced by the conductor of the SA Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Henry Krips, of the recent first performance of the city's newly-formed Symphony Orchestra.

For praise from a man of Mr. Krip's experience and ability in the world of music is praise indeed. Undoubtedly it will be a wonderful encouragement to the musicians of this new orchestra and an incentive to continually increase their already high standards.

But, no matter how good such an orchestra may be, Burnside people who welcome its inception must remember that such a body lives or dies by the support and enthusiasm it receives from the public.

Remember, a symphony orchestra is formed not for the enjoyment and satisfaction of those musicians that make up its components, but for YOU.

Only by giving this orchestra the practical encouragement it deserves through big attendances will it have the chance to develop into a body that could, in time, hold its place favorably with any similar organisation in Australia.
